Masters

Digital Marketing and Social Media - MA

The MA in Digital Marketing and Social Media focuses on digital marketing and social media communications channels within a strategic marketing context.

Apart from providing core knowledge in strategic marketing, advertising and sales and on-line consumer behaviour, the students will acquire specialist knowledge and skills to implement and manage effective social media and digital marketing campaigns.

International Relations and European Union Studies - MA

The programme offers students the knowledge and skills to critically engage with International Relations, EU public policy and global governance issues. In a highly volatile and ever-changing international environment where the European Union remains one of the world's centres of socio-economic and political activity, knowledge on EU and global issues has become increasingly important to both academia and industry.

Graduates can pursue an exciting career in international organisations, NGOs, local government, journalism, business, consultancy and further academic degrees (PhD).

Bachelors

Business Studies (Marketing) - BA

Marketing is the insightful process of thinking about and planning for markets. The study of marketing includes the analysis of the market, development of products to meet customer demand, and the planning and implementation of a wide range of operations including advertising, promotion, distribution, pricing and market research.

The increase of international competition has led to a vital need for marketing expertise in all areas of business including non-profit organisations such as charities and the arts.
